P.L. Ferrari & Co – Coronavirus – Offices in Italy – Working remotely

10th March 2020

The objective of the latest measures imposed by the Italian Government in an effort to contain the COVID 19 virus (Coronavirus) are intended to limit travel and personal contact. In response to these measures, the P.L Ferrari & Co Italian offices in Genoa, Ferrara and Naples will be working remotely until further notice. Some core staff will attend the office every other day to ensure necessary assistance is provided to colleagues working from home, as required.

Until further notice, the PLF Italian offices will also cancel any travel and face to face meetings with Clients, Clubs, Insurers and / or third parties during this period.

Our colleagues in Genoa, Ferrara and Naples will be working remotely to maintain service levels as best possible. However, we apologise in advance if this unavoidable situation results in delays or any inconvenience. Rest assured we are doing, and will continue to do, whatever is in our power to avoid any form of disruption.

The PLF offices in London and Athens will remain open and continue to operate as normal. The Monaco office will also remain open for the time being, but the local situation is being monitored closely and we will provide an update if this changes.
